I want to support multiple instances. It's easy to support a pool with only one connection, but what is the best way to manage a pool of many? A: I would use ActiveJDBC. It handles connection pooling without being too tightly coupled to your database. The main downside is that they do not support transactions (yet). A cursory read through their docs suggest that this is something they are working on. A: You can have many pools for many datasources in spring. With Spring you can use your DataSources as DatabaseConnectionProvider implementation, so you can have a "specific" connection pool for each datasource. The pool managment is handled by Spring or C3PO if you prefer. Regards Real-time bioluminescence imaging system using an eight-well slide cover glass for 3-dimensional analysis. We have developed a real-time bioluminescence imaging system using an eight-well slide cover glass. In this system, the images are divided into 4 or 8 sectors, and the level of detection is increased by using a 8- or 16-well slide cover glass. With an 8- or 16-well cover glass, detection limits for the images become 0.8 or 0.1 pM/cm(2) for firefly luciferase and 1.2 or 0.2 nM/cm(2) for renilla luciferase, respectively. Furthermore, the instrument is useful for imaging systems in which the target cells are dense and must be imaged over a large area of a well at any given time. This system is suitable for studies on the cell-to-cell heterogeneity within a population of mammalian cells. 6d1f23a050
