A member of the South West Africa People's Organization (SWAPO), he has been a member of the National Council of Namibia since 2009. He is Secretary-General of the Party and was a member of the Fourth SWAPO Central Committee and Chairman of the SWAPO Commission for Struggle. Political career Jikenga served as Minister of Finance and Economic Planning in the cabinet of Hage Geingob, from 2014 to 2015. Following the 2015 general elections he was appointed Minister of Higher Education and Training in the second cabinet of Hage Geingob. He was also a candidate on the SWAPO list for the 2015 national elections. Jikenga received the highest vote on the SWAPO list in the 2015 general election, coming fourth with 76,984 votes. He was subsequently elected as a member of the National Council of Namibia in the 2019 election. Minister of Finance and Economic Planning On 27 August 2014, Jikenga was sworn in as the Minister of Finance and Economic Planning. He was appointed to that position after the cabinet of Hage Geingob had approved that the Finance portfolio, which had traditionally been held by Minister of Finance and Economic Planning Hage Geingob, would be combined with the Education portfolio. Jikenga subsequently held a number of high-level posts in the government, including acting deputy minister of Finance and Economic Planning, acting deputy minister of Home Affairs, and acting deputy minister of Sport and Youth Development. Minister of Higher Education and Training On 16 October 2015, Jikenga was sworn in as the Minister of Higher Education and Training in the Geingob government. After the cabinet of Hage Geingob reshuffled in August 2016, he remained in his post. He was announced as Minister of Home Affairs by President Hage Geingob on 11 December 2016. In 2016, the Ministry of Education's website was misconfigured by the government, and the computer systems crashed, leaving thousands of students with accounts in arrears. Students across the country worked to find out the status of their pay, and began receiving their wages late on several occasions. Many schools were also closed, with Jikenga's ministry's own website showing a \"#closed\" notice on the page for the Ministry of Education and Training. He subsequently spoke to media to defend the ministry's decision not to pay students salaries, saying that the financial cost was too high, given that the government was facing economic instability. In the years following the 2017–18 school year, there were delays in the wage payments of government employees, but there were no major irregularities. In 2018, for the first time, students in the tertiary education system began to graduate with debt, according to the Namibia Society of Accountants. Student loans amounted to a total of N$140 million as of the end of 2018.
