Since a full analytical solution of the considered equation is not available to us, only numerical results are presented in the present work. It is demonstrated that the results obtained using the asymptotic method are in a good agreement with those obtained using the perturbation theory, thus demonstrating its efficiency. Finally, a thorough analysis of the influence of various factors on the structures is presented for any angular quantum number. It is shown that with increasing  $l$  a number of new types of structures with a higher number of nodes (from 1 to  $2l$ ) appear, and as an effect, an interval of proper values of parameters increases. The corresponding plots are presented in the Fig.\[fig-ksz3-l]. \[ Plots illustrating influence of the parameters  $l$ ,  $K$ ,  $\kappa$  on the number of oscillating nodes  $u$  for a given value of the radial quantum number  $n=1$  and  $K/\kappa=2$ . \[fig-ksz3-l\] (f-l-n1-K2.eps "fig:") {width="50.00000%"} \[ Plots illustrating influence of the parameters  $l$ ,  $K$ ,  $\kappa$  on the number of oscillating nodes  $u$  for a given value
